

HURRICANE CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE

Hall - Mills Evidence Revealed

SPECIAL ATTORNEY HAS FINGER PRINTS OF ONE DEFENDANT

Card Found Near Scene
Bore Marks Court
Is Told

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 26.—A card bearing the finger prints of one of the three defendants held on a murder charge in the Hall-Mills case was found near the bodies of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker was informed today.

The announcement was made by Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor at a hearing on application for bail for Henry De La Bruyere Carpenter and Willie Stevens.

Simpson's announcement was the first public indication that the state had any concrete evidence to back up the story of Mrs. Jace Gibson, the "Pig Woman" that she was near the Phillips farm on the night of the murder.

Simpson did not say whether the finger prints were those of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the slain clergyman's widow, who is held under $15,000 bail on a charge of murder; of Stevens, her eccentric brother or of Carpenter, her cousin and a Wall Street broker.

Simpson told the court he thought it only fair to the defense to submit evidence in addition to that presented when Carpenter and Stevens were held without bail at a hearing last week.

Robert H. McCarter, chief of defense counsel, objected to the introduction of new evidence. County Judge Frank L. Cleary, who held Carpenter and Stevens at last week's hearing, was on the bench with Judge Parker.

McCarter offered a transcript of the evidence at the hearing of Carpenter and Stevens. "A large part of it you, Justice Parker, will not find it necessary to read," McCarter said.

"I have followed the newspaper accounts very carefully," Justice Parker interrupted. "I think they were quite accurate."

"Yes I think they were quite accurate," McCarter agreed.

When court resumed Justice Parker asked the defendants be brought in. Carpenter came first, neatly groomed and wearing a blue serge suit. Stevens followed him, his clothes baggy, his hair uncombed.

Attorney Robert McCarter, for the defense began his argument for the application.

He reviewed the history of the investigation and took occasion to remark that "I have never known of any case that was sifted any more thoroughly by my friends of the press. I feel that the press did more than the officials."

OLD INDIAN BATTLE
AXE IS DISPLAYED

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 26.—A stone battle ax, weighing more than 300 pounds and measuring twenty-nine inches, is on display in the office of S. G. McClelland, secretary of state. The ax was brought here by L. R. Waller, on whose Oconee River farm, in Putnam County, Georgia, it was found more than a century ago.

Believed at first to be a freak of nature, geologists found that the stone had been shaped and the groove for the handle cut by human hands.

Mr. Waller said he believed the weapon was made by Creek Indians, who once lived in the vicinity of the Waller farm.

Creek Indian legend has it that the ax was the property of a powerful chieftain.

"Sheik" In Final Role

DOORS CLOSED AGAINST CROWDS ANXIOUS TO SEE BODY OF "SHEIK"

Lack Of Reverence At Bier Causes Friends To Forbid Further Lying-In-State—Police Disperse 5,000 In Line

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The public lying-in-state of Rudolph Valentino has ended in a last frantic outburst of clamor, and henceforth until the funeral only intimates of the actor, coming with a signed pass from his manager, may view the body which today again lies in the mob-tattered glories of an undertaker's "gold room."

A final charge of mounted police, was needed shortly before midnight to clear the streets of a crowd of 5,000 which still sought admission to view the body, although George Ullman, Valentino's manager had announced that the doors would then be closed, due to "lack of reverence of the crowd and disorder and rioting since the body was first shown."

All evening the parade of curious onlookers had continued, while police struggled with thousands waiting outside in the fog. Approximately 75,000 persons viewed the body in twenty-three hours.

Shortly before midnight the doors shut without warning. Simultaneously mounted police came out of side streets and rode up on the throng.

When the charge of horsemen came, those nearest the doors had shoved forward, brushed aside the police there and stormed the entrance. Within police and attendants of the undertaking parlor met the rush.

Only some seventy-five persons gained admittance before the doors were slammed again. The seventy-five were herded out a rear exit without seeing the body.

Police remained on all-night duty, keeping night-owls moving past the windows. Inside the employees of the undertaking firm counted the damage in ruined hangings, bits of gilt ornament chipped off as souvenirs and the loss of the $1,000 rug before the coffin, trampled by the muddy feet of the thousands.

One 14-year-old girl, alone, wept during the march past the coffin. Due to the demonstrations of the past few days plans for a state funeral for Valentino have been abandoned, and the funeral services Monday will be private.

BAN MAGAZINE

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 26.—"Sex," a monthly magazine, met with the official disapproval of Police Chief Cavender today and he ordered confiscation of police of approximately two dozen copies of the September issue from news and book stands. CARROLLTON, O., Aug. 26.—Joseph V. Lawler, 78, former postmaster of Carrollton and prominent in Democratic politics, was dead here today.

Ullman, Valentino's manager had announced that the doors would then be closed, due to "lack of reverence of the crowd and disorder and rioting since the body was first shown."

All evening the parade of curious onlookers had continued, while police struggled with thousands waiting outside in the fog. Approximately 75,000 persons viewed the body in twenty-three hours.

KELLOGG TO CONFER WITH HERRICK UPON FRENCH SITUATION

Discusses Conditions
Mexico With Sheffield

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Secretary of State Kellogg thoroughly informed on Mexican affairs after a conference with Ambassador James R. Sheffield, which lasted nearly all day yesterday, today will turn his attention to France.

Myron T. Herrick, U. S. Ambassador to France, and Kellogg will meet this morning to discuss the situation growing out of the tangled financial affairs of America's late ally. Prospects for ratification of the debt funding agreement; significance of attacks by Frenchmen on United States tourists and by some portions of the French press on the American government and the growing demand in Europe for a general cancellation of debts or some other complete new financial deal, are expected to be discussed.

The only authentic word from the Sheffield-Kellogg conference yesterday was the secretary's announcement that the ambassador has the confidence of the administration and would not resign and no change in the U. S. policy toward Mexico was contemplated.

The troublesome retroactive provisions of the Mexican oil and land laws, occupied their attention most of the time although it is understood the situation growing out of the religious controversy also was discussed.

CORNERSTONE LAID FOR MASONIC ANNEX WITH LODGE RITUAL

Dayton Minister Is
Speaker—Grand Lodge
In Charge

Xenia Masonic bodies saw the crystallization of a dream of almost twenty years when the cornerstone of the new $55,000 annex adjacent to the recently acquired Masonic Temple, in the Dadds Addition, was laid with the solemn and impressive Masonic ritualistic ceremony Wednesday afternoon.

Approximately 300 people witnessed the exercises which were featured by a parade in the downtown section of the city preceding the program in which all Masons present for the ceremonies took part.

Delegations were present from Dayton, Springfield, Wilmington, Waynesville, Cedarville and Yellow Springs.

An epochal event, marking the beginning of a new era in Masonic history in Xenia, the cornerstone laying will remain as evidence of the untiring efforts of Freemasonry in Greene County.

The Masonic ritual was followed throughout the program which opened with the proclamation by Right Worshipful Grand Marshal Coleman E. Hill, Williamsport.

Right Worshipful Grand Chaplain the Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, this city, pronounced the invocation after which a song, "Open the Gates of the Temple," was rendered by the Xenia F. and A. M. No. 49 Quartet, composed of Roy E. Spahr, L. A. Wagner, L. F. Clark and R. O. Copsey.

Actual cornerstone laying began with presentation of the trowel by Rufus Jones, Dayton, president of two banking institutions and thirty second degree Mason. The trowel, a work of art, was loaned to the Xenia Masonic bodies by the Dayton Scottish Rite bodies to perform the ceremony.

It was used in the cornerstone laying exercises for the Masonic Temple in that city. The trowel was presented by Mr. Jones to George Little, president of The Masonic Temple Association, who in turn presented it to Past Grand Master Harry S. Johnson, Cincinnati, deputized by Grand Master

POSSES SEEK SIX BANDITS

Two Oklahoma Banks Robbed Simultaneously While
Companions Patrol Street—Loss Estimated At $10,000

COVINGTON, Okla., Aug. 26.—Six bandits who systematically and quietly robbed two banks here late Wednesday, were the objects of a posse hunt today while citizens discussed the unusual holdup methods employed.

Without flourishing revolvers, but reminding their victims they were well armed, two bandits entered one bank, locked twenty-four employees and customers in the vault and took all their money in sight while two others staged a similar hold up in the bank across the street.

Meanwhile, the other two bandits rode up and down the main street in two automobiles. At one of the banks, an aged woman was cashing four checks, totalling about $70, when the bandits entered.

When she told them they had taken her money, one of the men returned the checks to her and admonished her to "sit still" until they had gone.

The loss was estimated at about $10,000.

GUNBOATS HURRY TO NICARAGUA TO HELP AMERICAN CITIZENS

Will Protect Life And Property During Revolution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—With conflicting reports here as to the status of the revolutionary movement in Nicaragua, two U. S. gunboats, the Tulsa and Galveston, today were enroute to Bluefields and Corinto, to protect American lives and property.

Dispatches early this week indicated the revolution had practically been put down. Action of the state department yesterday in asking the Navy for aid, which followed receipt of reports from consular agents in Nicaragua, was taken to indicate, however, that the situation has grown much more serious.

The Nicaraguan minister here is understood to have received a dispatch from President Chamorro, charging gun running and other aid to the revolutionists by ships flying the Mexican flag.

The American gun boats are expected to reach Nicaragua some time today.

No attempt to land detachments is planned unless unexpectedly dangerous outbreaks occur, it is understood.

The ships are being sent "as a precautionary measure," it was emphasized.

Alberto hopes the funeral will be postponed until Wednesday until the Homeric will arrive.

RELEASE BROTHERS WHEN FATHER FOUND

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—The Howard brothers, Albert and John, who were arrested and put in jail after the disappearance of their father, John F. Howard, have been released. Police had located the father at Puebla, where he went after the death of his second wife a day or two ago.

Police are authority for the statement that their investigation revealed that the brothers had nothing to do with their father's disappearance from Mexico City.

John Howard disappeared again today, according to Police Headquarters. Police report that he left his hotel and abandoned the automobile in which he traveled to Mexico City, and that his present whereabouts is unknown.

The quarrel between Howard and the sons has been bitter. It concluded with the declaration that this "thirst for screen romance constitutes a folly which is a clear symptom of profound moral and civil decadence."

LOUISIANA CITIES ISOLATED; REPORT SEVERAL INJURED

Tulane University Suffers Fire; Storm Now Passing

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 26.—Heavy property damage was suffered by the Louisiana Gulf coast in the tropical hurricane which swept in from the gulf last night, fragmentary reports indicated today.

Morgan City, La., where the center of the storm struck, has been isolated since early in the night. It is feared serious property damage and perhaps loss of life may have been caused there.

A $26,000 fire in the chemistry building of Tulane University here, was laid to the storm when fire department inspectors said a short circuit resulting when wires were blown down, started it. Several other fires were reported. Several persons reported minor injuries when they were struck by tree branches and electric signs torn loose by the gale.

Public utilities suffered heavily here. Electric lights were out for hours and telephone service was crippled. Telephone systems also were affected.

Train service along the Gulf Coast was reported disrupted. Because of crippled communication, the path of the storm after it reached the coast was in doubt today. Weather bureau forecasters predicted it would strike straight inland and then curve eastward toward Florida.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The tropical storm from the gulf of Mexico which has threatened Louisiana and Texas for three days has passed north of New Orleans and decreased in intensity to a stage not dangerous from high winds, the U. S. Weather bureau announced today.

The winds will continue to decrease for the next twenty-four hours, forecaster H. H. Weightman said, asserting that all danger of damage to life and property was practically ended.

The Gilded Rose

By May Christie

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY learns on her wedding day from her mother that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying.

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway.

RUPERT BRISCOE, a dissipated man of the world, has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

Van Vorst, however, hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta Fernandez, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Briscoe who tells a "fishy" story to account for his proximity to the scene. Landis disapproves heartily of the whole affair but conscious of his neglect of Rosilyn invites her to attend a stage garden party with him. She joyfully accepts.

At the party Landis becomes his old lovable self again.

CHAPTER 56

THINGS CLEAR UP

"Landis"—the hand that held the teacup trembled—"would you think me awfully silly if I asked you to tell what is it that makes men follow after a woman?"

The man beside her gave his careless laugh.

"Want to be a siren, do you, Rosilyn? Are you bent on fascinating Briscoe? Or are you merely bored with your humdrum husband, and want a little fling?"

"Don't tease me, Landis. I'm in earnest. If you only knew how utterly ignorant I feel!"

"You're getting along splendidly far better than I even imagined—and you never were a stupid girl, Rosilyn. You've been surprisingly adaptable, and every day will make things easier—socially."

She flushed with pleasure. Praise from this man was very rare and very sweet.

"Now about the 'charm' question," he went on, smilingly, "just be your simple self. That's unusual enough to be interesting these days. You know, Rosilyn, you've got a 'wild flower' sort of attraction that's utterly different from the faded, blase, sophisticated girl one meets everywhere."

"But—" she hesitated, anxious to make herself clear, and to be fully enlightened—"these girls are popular, aren't they? Men do court them and run after them."

He laughed at that. It was a quizzical laugh, and he regarded his young wife rather keenly.

Had she heard about Lydia, and wanted to 'cut her out'? Was that the reason de'tre of this probing?

"You're doing rather well, for a novice," Briscoe seems almost too 'epris'. And he rather fancied himself as a connoisseur.

"I like him—and I don't like him," said the girl.

"Go easy with him, Rosilyn."

She raised her eyes to the fine, dark orbs that were watching her intently.

"Anything you say, Landis. Only—you know I've been a little lonely—I often wanted to explain about that night in town—when he and I missed you and you waited at Claridge's."

"Oh, forget it," came the hurried comment.

But Rosilyn persisted.

"We saw you at that cabaret performance. You were dancing. I wanted—awfully—to hurry downstairs and join you—but Mr. Briscoe showed me that it wasn't just the correct thing."

"The dickens he did!" Landis' amazement was genuine. "But I hadn't an idea you were in the place!"

"I thought you saw me!" Rosilyn's sensitive heart fluttered with a new hope. It was the Harbrook woman who had dragged him off so quickly!

"Thought I saw you?" The young man repeated the query incredulously.

lously. "What kind of a creature do you take me for, Rosilyn, if you imagine that I am capable of doing such an extraordinary thing? I most certainly did not see you, and I'm surprised that you and Briscoe did not come and join us. Mr. Briscoe was the host. Of what was he thinking?"

The girl hesitated, then she forced herself to say:

"Our marriage isn't the ordinary one. You remember—our agreement? Then why should I interfere with your enjoyment?"

There was a silence. The music of the band came fitfully and a warm little wind blew through the foliage of the trees.

Then Landis, in rather a hoarse voice, said:

"Remember, Rosilyn, that I am always glad to have you with me. And I want to apologize for many things, if you'll be generous enough and sweet enough to allow me? I know I'm not nearly good enough for you."

Her breath caught in her throat. Was she asleep and dreaming? Could these wonderful words really have come from the man she so adored? Was it really possible he had some genuine feeling for her?

"Shall we walk on for a bit?" She rose from the grass, brushing her bunchy skirts as though her appearance was of more importance than her husband's last remarks, although her heart was hammering in her bosom. "We've both finished tea, haven't we?"

"Yes, let us move on." He thought her abrupt change of subject was a running away from any intimacy between them, and that indeed she had no personal sentiment for him.

But as they walked through the crowded gardens, the girl kept close beside him, and once—with a confiding little gesture—she placed her hand for a moment or two upon his arm.

"Enjoying yourself, Rosilyn?" They had paused in front of a gaily-decorated booth where certain articles were being 'auctioned off', and he plunged into the little crowd his wife, beside him. "See, I'm going to buy something for you, as a little souvenir of a delightful afternoon. It's to be the forerunner, I hope, of lots of other jolly times—together." He laid a stress on the last word.

"Oh! How amusing!" Rosilyn clapped her two hands together, like a delighted child when Landis secured an absurd French doll. "Look at the curly red wig! They're as old as Egypt, Landis, and as wise!"

After that they 'did' the side-shows and were suitably fleeced. Then they had their pictures taken 'while you wait' and then the 'coconut shies' did a brisk business with them.

"You throw just like a boy," commented Landis, gaily, when his young wife won a prize.

"I feel just like a kid today," said Rosilyn, her heart a thrill with pulsating happiness.

Then Landis, in rather a hoarse voice, said:

"Remember, Rosilyn, that I am always glad to have you with me. And I want to apologize for many things, if you'll be generous enough and sweet enough to allow me? I know I'm not nearly good enough for you."

"Remember, Rosilyn, that I am always glad to have you with me. And I want to apologize for many things, if you'll be generous enough and sweet enough to allow me? I know I'm not nearly good enough for you."

Her breath caught in her throat. Was she asleep and dreaming? Could these wonderful words really have come from the man she so adored? Was it really possible he had some genuine feeling for her?

"Shall we walk on for a bit?" She rose from the grass, brushing her bunchy skirts as though her appearance was of more importance than her husband's last remarks, although her heart was hammering in her bosom. "We've both finished tea, haven't we?"

"Yes, let us move on." He thought her abrupt change of subject was a running away from any intimacy between them, and that indeed she had no personal sentiment for him.

But as they walked through the crowded gardens, the girl kept close beside him, and once—with a confiding little gesture—she placed her hand for a moment or two upon his arm.

"Enjoying yourself, Rosilyn?" They had paused in front of a gaily-decorated booth where certain articles were being 'auctioned off', and he plunged into the little crowd his wife, beside him. "See, I'm going to buy something for you, as a little souvenir of a delightful afternoon. It's to be the forerunner, I hope, of lots of other jolly times—together." He laid a stress on the last word.

"Oh! How amusing!" Rosilyn clapped her two hands together, like a delighted child when Landis secured an absurd French doll. "Look at the curly red wig! They're as old as Egypt, Landis, and as wise!"

After that they 'did' the side-shows and were suitably fleeced. Then they had their pictures taken 'while you wait' and then the 'coconut shies' did a brisk business with them.

"You throw just like a boy," commented Landis, gaily, when his young wife won a prize.

"I feel just like a kid today," said Rosilyn, her heart a thrill with pulsating happiness.

Then Landis, in rather a hoarse voice, said:

"Remember, Rosilyn, that I am always glad to have you with me. And I want to apologize for many things, if you'll be generous enough and sweet enough to allow me? I know I'm not nearly good enough for you."

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

You'll have to go farther back than the old McGuffey readers to get this poem. You might find it in one of the old books of elocution. It went something like this:

THE LOST PANTALOONS

It chanced to be my golfing day,
The thunder loud was roaring,
I carried water to the bay
And left the gray there snoring;
I thought that I'd a golfing go,
For I had loads of riches,
When, Lord! a dreadful thing I found—
My wife had on my breeches.

I tried on all her petticoats
Alas, I couldn't wear 'em
But in my pants she played at golf,
And how I feared she'd tear 'em
They were my finest woolen pair,
Without a patch or stitches;
I could no longer stand and swear
And wish I had my breeches.

That night when from the course she came
How changed from what I knew them,
My tailored pants were not the same—
One more such trip would rue them.
I saw the wide and glist'ning rents
Where golf course briars had torn them,
They look like they cost 15 cents
And I for years had worn them.

O, sorry day, when woman learned
To wear her husband's breeches,
For now her head to golf is turned
And turned away from stitches;
And tho' her wardrobe through he gleams
And through it all his claim is,
He finds he can't replace his jeans—
He can't wear her pajamas.

Well, Longfellow Smallpox from Cotton Run sends me a land turtle. Very interesting, but what am I to do with it. The greatest drawback to the critter is its head. There is no drawback to Gazette classified ads. Phone an ad tomorrow.

The one at the right was taken a few days ago in New York. The Dempsey of 1919, the photos show, was trimmer and therefore probably faster, than the champion now is after seven years. Note the smaller waistline and finer muscles about the body of the Dempsey of seven years ago.

TEXT OF ADDRESS DELIVERED BY SPEAKER AT MASONIC PROGRAM

Mr. Chairman, Most Worshipful Grand Master, Officers of the Lodge, Ladies and Gentlemen: Your friends from near and far come today to rejoice with members of this Local Lodge, to congratulate you upon your success in masonry and especially to felicitate you upon your proposed beautiful new Lodge Building. Brethren, do not feel, therefore, that you are alone in this most worthy project. The eyes of your Brethren not only in this land, but beyond the seas, will rejoice and wish you unmeasured success.

Inasmuch as you are making history today it will be fittingly proper to turn our minds backward for a few moments. Early in the fifteenth century, Henry the Sixth of England asked: "Where did Masonry begin?" Being told it began in the East, he asked: "Who brought it Westward?" The answer was: "The Phoenicians." Thus, backward through the ages has Masonic history run until the first glimpse of its genesis is practically lost. Originally, however, it was a fraternity of architects and artificers. In Tyro and Sidon, temples were erected to the unknown deities. Rich and gorgeous palaces also were built to beautify their cities. Many of these cunning workmen were sent by Hiram to aid Solomon in the erection of the temple on Mount Moriah.

For eight centuries Masonry continued as an operative fraternity, producing both in England and on the Continent those beautiful specimens of art which still delight the traveler. Today, however, our craft does not specialize in the physical science of buildings. Our chief endeavor is to specialize in the moral and benevolent world. To us is a higher reverence for God than to any other men.

The outward civilization is important and necessary but "the inner man must be renewed day by day" if civilization is to endure.

Masonry today is a universal institution. During all the years it has never presumed to supplant the Church. It has, however, been a mighty factor in assisting both church and state to remain as independent institutions yet working toward the common end of social betterment.

I have often wondered why so many real Christians are members of the Fraternity. During the last few years I have learned that the real work of the Masonic Lodge is to make man a better husband; a more devoted father; a more loyal citizen. To all of which the real Church of the Master will say a hearty AMEN!

Law and morals are distinct, our aim is one. Thus, the Church State is separate institution, yet, their aim is to produce and inspire the citizen. Law prepares the way for the Moral order and Morals make more easy the task of law. Here, Masonry grips the soul of man. The twenty-four-inch gauge, the plumb, the level, square and compass, and trestle-board are eloquent of measurement and restraint.

The savage measures nothing. He kills beyond his present need. Momentary desire controls his action. This is also with the hardened criminal. Human life to him is cheap and in the prospect of momentary gain slays the noblest citizen of the nation. On the other hand, the acts of civilized man are correlated. We know today by actual experience, that, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." We speak when Israel escaped from Egypt through a lane made dry for them by God across the Red Sea." Cromwell with his sword and Milton with his pen saved liberty from being throttled by the Stuarts.

Moses was not permitted to enter the Promised Land, yet by faith saw the Land: entered, conquered, occupied, a kingdom established, and the Temple erected. Masonry believes in human nature and the willingness of the Divine to reinforce the human. Therefore, confide in the words of the Sacred writer: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" Masonry owes no allegiance to the Pharaohs, nor the Neros, nor to those whose coats of arms are cross-bones. Her work is not destructive in character but constructive. In this we rejoice. Because of this principle, she will live through the coming years.

Masonry believes in the Fatherhood of God. Therefore, she has a right to live. She also believes in the brotherhood of man. Therefore, she will be helpful to human society.

In this age of gross materialism, when so many of our fellow-men are worshipping the golden calf of selfishness; when so many are falling prostrate before the gold-dust of earth, I am almost constrained to cry with Mordcai, when the Jews were in imminent danger from a wicked, jealous Haman, "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" In answer the Queen took her life into her own hands and stood before the King. Thus, my Brethren, we are taught the sacredness of society and human life. There are enemies abroad. Let no one be deceived. Our only hope and purpose is to educate the ignorant, clothe the naked, befriend the friendless, comfort those who mourn and inspire with a Holy inspiration, a deeper reverence for our Heavenly Father and a more ardent love for one another. In the Divine Providence, thus far, God has allowed only one America, "The Land of the Free, and the Home of the Brave." May we love her as we love our life. May we give copiously of our time and energy, thought and prayer, to make her a better place for our children, and indeed, on earth, to make her "the last fond hope of man."

"The dawn's aglow with luster of the sun
O love, O burning passion, that has made
Our day illustrious till hours are done—
Fire our dull hearts, that, in our sun's eclipse,
When death stoops low to kiss us on the lips,
He still may find us singing, unafraid."

One thing we know, that love so greatly spent
Dies not when lovers die: From hand to hand
We pass the torch and perish—well content,
If in dark years to come our countrymen
Feel the divine flame leap in them again,
And so remember us and understand."

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

Hall - Mills Evidence Revealed

SPECIAL ATTORNEY HAS FINGER PRINTS OF ONE DEFENDANT

Card Found Near Scene
Bore Marks Court
Is Told

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 26.—A card bearing the finger prints of one of the three defendants held on a murder charge in the Hall-Mills case was found near the bodies of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker was informed today.

The announcement was made by Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor at a hearing on application for bail for Henry De La Bruyere Carpenter and Willie Stevens.

Simpson's announcement was the first public indication that the state had any concrete evidence to back up the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "Pig Woman" that she was near the Phillips farm on the night of the murder.

Simpson did not say whether the finger prints were those of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the slain clergyman's widow, who is held under $15,000 bail on a charge of murder; of Stevens, her eccentric brother or of Carpenter, her cousin and a Wall Street broker.

Simpson told the court he thought it only fair to the defense to submit evidence in addition to that presented when Carpenter and Stevens were held without bail at a hearing last week.

Robert H. McCarter, chief of defense counsel, objected to the introduction of new evidence.

County Judge Frank L. Cleary, who held Carpenter and Stevens at last week's hearing, was on the bench with Judge Parker.

McCarter offered a transcript of the evidence at the hearing of Carpenter and Stevens.

"A large part of it you, Justice Parker, will not find it necessary to read," McCarter said.

"I have followed the newspaper accounts very carefully," Justice Parker interrupted. "I think they were quite accurate."

"Yes I think they were quite accurate," McCarter agreed.

When court resumed Justice Parker asked the defendants be brought in. Carpenter came first, neatly groomed and wearing a blue serge suit. Stevens followed him, his clothes baggy, his hair uncombed.

Attorney Robert McCarter, for the defense began his argument for the application.

He reviewed the history of the investigation and took occasion to remark that "I have never known of any case that was sifted any more thoroughly by my friends of the press. I feel that the press did more than the officials."

OLD INDIAN BATTLE AXE IS DISPLAYED

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 26.—A stone battle ax, weighing more than 300 pounds and measuring twenty-nine inches, is on display in the office of S. G. McClelland, secretary of state. The ax was brought here by L. R. Waller, on whose Oconee River farm, in Putnam County, Georgia, it was found more than a century ago.

Believed at first to be a freak of nature, geologists found that the stone had been shaped and the groove for the handle cut by human hands.

Mr. Waller said he believed the weapon was made by Creek Indians, who once lived in the vicinity of the Waller farm.

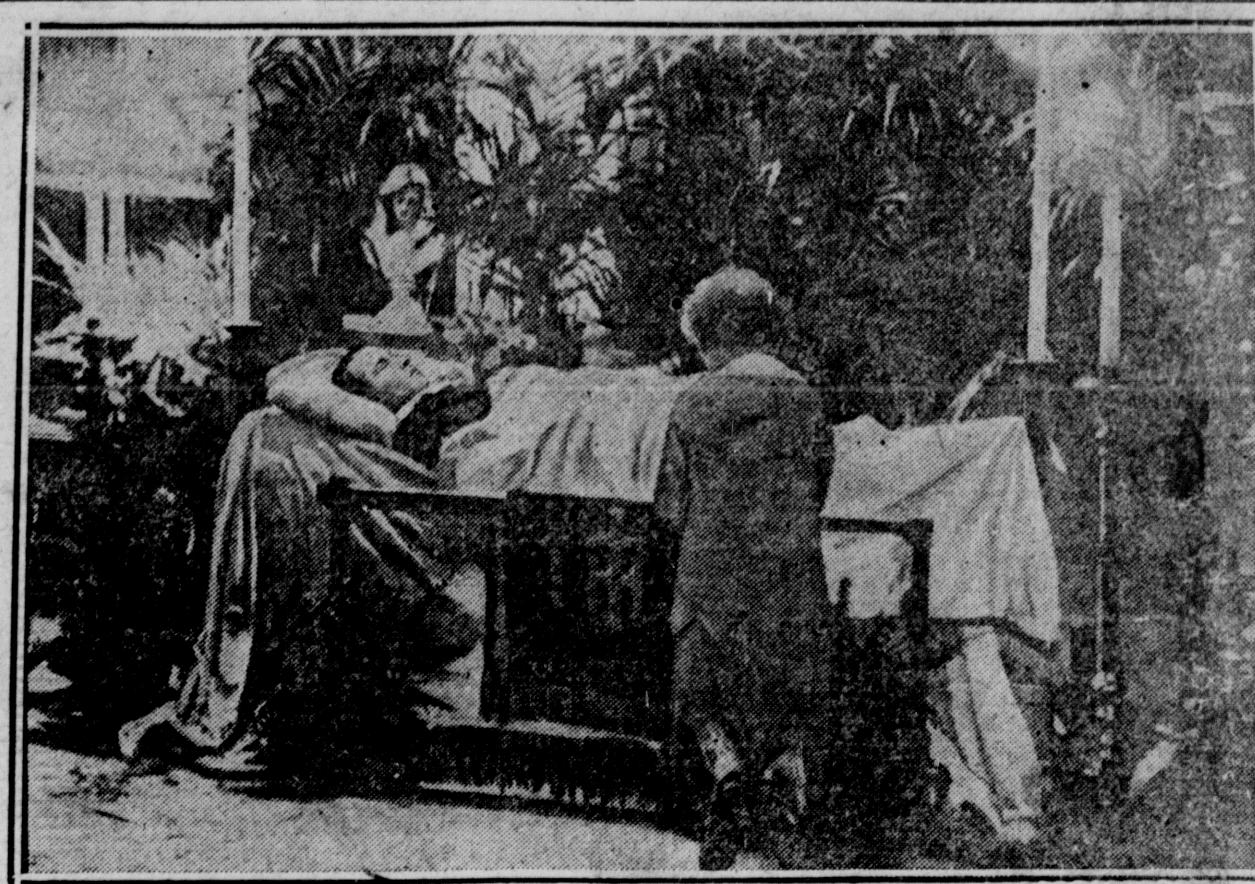

Creek Indian legend has it that the ax was the property of a powerful chieftain.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 26.—"Sex," a monthly magazine, met with the official disapproval of Police Chief Cavender today and he ordered confiscation of police of approximately two dozen copies of the September issue from news and book stands. FORMER P. M. DIES

CARROLLTON, O., Aug. 26.—Joseph V. Lawler, 78, former postmaster of Carrollton and prominent in Democratic politics, was dead here today.

ULMAN, VALENTINO'S MANAGER ANNOUNCED THAT THE DOORS WOULD BE CLOSED, DUE TO "LACK OF REVERENCE OF THE CROWD AND DISORDER AND RIOTING SINCE THE BODY WAS FIRST SHOWN."

All evening the parade of curious seekers had continued, while police struggled with thousands waiting outside in the fog. Approximately 75,000 persons viewed the body in twenty-three hours.

Shortly before midnight the doors shut without warning. Simultaneously mounted police came out of side streets and rode up on the throng.

When the charge of horsemen came, those nearest the doors had shoved forward, brushed aside the police there and stormed the entrance. Within police and attendants of the undertaking parlor met the rush.

Only some seventy-five persons gained admittance before the doors were slammed again. The seventy-five were herded out a rear exit without seeing the body.

Policemen remained on all-night duty, keeping night-owls moving past the windows. Inside the firm counted the damage in ruined hangings, bits of gilt ornament clipped off as souvenirs and the loss of the $1,000 rug before the coffin, trampled by the muddy feet of the thousands.

One 14-year-old girl, alone, wept during the march past the coffin. Due to the demonstrations of the past few days plans for a state funeral for Valentino have been abandoned, and the funeral services Monday will be private.

At the hospital here it was found that Lieut. Bettis, who suffered a broken leg, a broken jaw and several lacerations of the head and body was "resting easily today."

KELLOGG TO CONFER WITH HERRICK UPON FRENCH SITUATION

Discusses Conditions
Mexico With Sheffield

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Secretary of State Kellogg thoroughly informed on Mexican affairs after a conference with Ambassador James R. Sheffield, which lasted nearly all day yesterday, today will turn his attention to France.

Myron T. Herrick, U. S. Ambassador to France, and Kellogg will meet this morning to discuss the situation growing out of the tangled financial affairs of America's late ally. Prospects for ratification of the debt funding agreement; significance of attacks by Frenchmen on United States tourists and by some portions of the French Press on the American government and the growing demand in Europe for a general cancellation of debts or some other complete new financial deal, are expected to be discussed.

The authentic word from the Sheffield-Kellogg conference yesterday was the secretary's announcement that the ambassador has the confidence of the administration and would not resign and no change in the U. S. policy toward Mexico was contemplated.

The troublesome retroactive provisions of the Mexican oil and land laws, occupied their attention most of the time although it is understood the situation growing out of the religious controversy also was discussed.

Xenia Masonic bodies saw the crystallization of a dream of almost twenty years when the cornerstone of the new $55,000 annex adjacent to the recently acquired Masonic Temple, in the Dadds Addition, was laid with the solemn and impressive Masonic ritualistic ceremony Wednesday afternoon.

Approximately 300 people witnessed the exercises which were featured by a parade in the downtown section of the city preceding the program in which all Masons present for the ceremonies took part.

Delegations were present from Dayton, Springfield, Wilmington, Waynesville, Cedarville and Yellow Springs.

An epochal event, marking the beginning of a new era in Masonic history in Xenia, the cornerstone laying will remain as evidence of the untiring efforts of Freemasonry in Greene County.

The Masonic ritual was followed throughout the program which opened with the proclamation by Right Worshipful Grand Marshal Coleman E. Hill, Williamsport.

Right Worshipful Grand Chaplain the Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, this city, pronounced the invocation after which a song "Open the Gates of the Temple" was rendered by the Xenia F. and A. M. No. 49 Quartet, composed of Roy E. Spahr, L. A. Wagner, L. F. Clark and R. O. Casey.

Actual cornerstone laying began with presentation of the trowel by Rufus Jones, Dayton, president of two banking institutions and thirty second degree Mason. The trowel, a work of art, was loaned to the Xenia Masonic bodies by the Dayton Scottish Rite bodies to perform the ceremony.

It was used in the cornerstone laying exercises for the Masonic Temple in that city. The trowel was presented by Mr. Jones to George Little, president of the Masonic Temple Association, who in turn presented it to Past Grand Master Harry S. Johnson, Cincinnati, deputized by Grand Master

OHIOAN PRESERVES TABLET FROM RUINS

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 26.—Miss Georgia Hopley, general prohibition agent and temperance worker, left her sick bed in Bucyrus, Ohio, against her physician's orders and was here today to rescue from wreckers the tablet in Woman's Temple, bearing the names of Ohio contributors.

The tablet carries the names of individuals who had contributed $50 or more toward erection of the building, which now is being razed.

Miss Hopley intends to place the Ohio tablet in the museum at Ohio State University.

OHIO FUGITIVE, IS BELIEF BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Aug. 26.—

Fred Klein, proprietor of the Birmingham Saxon Shop, was held here today following his arrest by federal agents, who said they believed the man is Fred P. Kobut, wanted in Cleveland on a charge of having embezzled money four years ago when serving as a trustee in bankruptcy in United States Court. Klein denied the charge. Effort will be made to have the prisoner removed to Cleveland.

DELEGATES ATTEND LUTHERAN SYNOD

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26.—More than three hundred delegates from the U. S., Canada, Mexico, South America and India, were in attendance here today for the 68th regular convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod.

The convention, which will be held at Christ Lutheran Church, was addressed today by Dr. C. C. Nein, newly elected president.

"Since the war, the home, the social, the industrial, the economic and political life of our nation, is not what it ought to be," he declared. "The necessity of a regeneration is apparent."

The convention is to continue through next week.

LIPSTICK BETRAYS MAN INTO PRISON

PAINESVILLE, O., Aug. 26.—Edward O. Burden, 18, Madison was in jail here today, betrayed by a carmine-lipstick.

Deputy Sheriff E. H. Lomas, found the lipstick in a grocery store after it had been robbed. Learning that the youth had often used such a beautifier, the officer placed him in custody.

The youth pleaded guilty and was bound over to the grand jury.

POSSES SEEK SIX BANDITS

Two Oklahoma Banks Robbed Simultaneously While
Companions Patrol Street—Loss Estimated At $10,000

COVINGTON, Okla., Aug. 26.—Six bandits who systematically and quietly robbed two banks here late Wednesday, were the objects of a posse hunt today while citizens discussed the unusual holdup methods employed.

Without flourishing revolvers, but reminding their victims they were well armed, two bandits entered one bank, locked twenty-four employees and customers in the vault and took all their money in sight while two others staged a similar hold up in the bank across the street.

Meanwhile, the other two bandits rode up and down the main street in two automobiles. At one of the banks, an aged woman was cashing four checks, totalling about $70, when the bandits entered.

When she told them they had taken her money, one of the men returned the checks to her and admonished her to "sit still" until they had gone.

The loss was estimated at about $10,000.

GUNBOATS HURRY TO NICARAGUA TO HELP AMERICAN CITIZENS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—With conflicting reports here as to the status of the revolutionary movement in Nicaragua, two U. S. gunboats, the Tulsa and Galveston, today were enroute to Bluefields and Corinto, to protect American lives and property.

Dispatches early this week indicated the revolution had practically been put down. Action of the state department yesterday in asking the Navy for aid, which followed receipt of reports from consular agents in Nicaragua, was taken to indicate, however, that the situation has grown much more serious.

The Nicaraguan minister here is understood to have received a dispatch from President Chamorro, charging gun running and other aid to the revolutionists by ships flying the Mexican flag.

The American gun boats are expected to reach Nicaragua some time today.

Before attempt to land detachments is planned, unless unexpectedly dangerous outbreaks occur, it is understood.

The ships are being sent "as a precautionary measure," it was emphasized.

VALENTINO GRAVE IS UP TO FRIENDS

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The wishes of Rudolph Valentino's American friends will determine the last resting place of the movie star's body.

Before boarding the White Star liner Homeric to return to New York, Alberto Guglielmi, Valentino's brother announced that he would be guided by the wishes of Rudolph's friends.

"If they desire the body to remain in the country in which his great qualities were developed," Alberto said, "that will be done. Otherwise, he will be buried in Italy."

Alberto hoped the funeral will be postponed until Wednesday until the Homeric will arrive.

TROTSKY IS GIVEN LEAVE OF ABSENCE

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Daily Express today printed what it described as official news from Moscow to the effect that Leon Trotsky has been granted an indefinite leave of absence and that commandant Soff, of the Soviet fleet has been dismissed.

There also have been, according to the Express story, wholesale replacements in the higher ranks of the army.

DISPLAY OVER RUDY FOLLY SAYS VATICAN

ROME, Aug. 26.—The Osservatore Romano, vatican organ, characterized the manifestations in New York, over the death of Rudolph Valentino, as "collective folly."

It remarked that the actor, on the point of death, certainly felt that life was a serious thing, and not romance.

It concluded with the declaration that this "thirst for screen romance constitutes a folly which is a clear symptom of profound moral and civil decadence."

LOUISIANA CITIES ISOLATED; REPORT SEVERAL INJURED

Tulane University Suffers Fire; Storm Now Passing

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 26.—Heavy property damage was suffered by the Louisiana Gulf coast in the tropical hurricane which swept in from the gulf last night, fragmentary reports indicated today.

Morgan City, La., where the center of the storm struck, has been isolated since early in the night. It is feared serious property damage and perhaps loss of life may have been caused there.

A $26,000 fire in the chemistry building of Tulane University here, was laid to the storm when fire department inspectors said a short circuit resulting when wires were blown down, started it. Several other fires were reported. Several persons reported minor injuries when they were struck by tree branches and electric signs torn loose by the gale.

Public utilities suffered heavily here. Electric lights were out for hours and telephone service was crippled. Telephone systems also were affected.

Train service along the Gulf Coast was reported disrupted.

Because of crippled communication, the path of the storm after it reached the coast was in doubt today. Weather bureau forecasters had predicted it would strike straight inland and then curve eastward toward Florida.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The tropical storm from the gulf of Mexico which threatened Louisiana and Texas for three days has passed north of New Orleans and decreased in intensity to a stage not dangerous from high winds, the U. S. Weather bureau announced today.

The winds will continue to decrease for the next twenty-four hours, forecasters H. W. Weightman said, asserting that all danger of damage to life and property was practically ended.

GREEK GENERAL FORMS CABINET

ATHENS, Aug. 26.—General Condyllis, who led Sunday's revolution which removed Gen. Pangalos from power today succeeded in forming a cabinet.

An attempt to liberate General Theodore Pangalos, failed today and Pangalos was transferred from the island of Aegina to the prison fortress of Izdudin, on the island of Crete, where the inhabitants are anti-Pangalos.

General Vitalis, chief of the Greek air service, was arrested today when he tried to persuade the officers guarding Pangalos at Aegina to permit him to escape to Italy in an airplane.

JUST PLAIN BILL SO HE DODGES BILL

DRESDEN, Saxony, Germany, Aug. 26.—A suit against the former King for three days has disclosed that the ex-king refuses to pay royal prices now for services.

The complainant is Katherine Mueller, a speech specialist, who says that last year she cured the stuttering of Prince Ferdinand, son of Princess Hermine by her first marriage.

"Miss Mueller said in her complaint that the royal physician had advised her to charge a good fee, otherwise her services would not be valued properly."

Attorneys for the former Kaiser say he is willing to pay $300. The law suit is to be heard September 29.

CONSTABLE SENT TO PRISON FOR MURDER

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 26.—W. D. Haywood, of Olive Hill, Ky., Constable, charged with the murder of Miss Martha Yahrhaus, of Portsmouth was found to be guilty by a jury at Grayson, Ky., and sentenced to seventeen years in the penitentiary. The killing took place when the Constable fired at a machine occupied by Miss Yahrhaus and her fiancée, David Thomas of Portsmouth, the Constable contending the machine was speeding and that the driver refused to stop when ordered to do so.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26.—Governor Vic Donahey reviewed the 166th Infantry Regiment, O. N. G. here yesterday in its first parade and review since the close of the war.

The Gilded Rose

By May Christie

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY learns on her wedding day from the gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with LYDIA HARBROOK, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying.

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway, she is really fond of Ridgeway. RUPERT BRISCOE, a dissipated man of the world, has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

Van Vorst, however, hungering for her love, decides to use MARIETTA FERNANDEZ, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Briscoe who tells a "fishy" story to account for his proximity to the scene. Landis disapproves heartily of the whole affair but conscious of his neglect of Rosilyn invites her to attend a stage garden party with him. She joyfully accepts.

At the party Landis becomes his old lovable self again.

CHAPTER 56

THINGS CLEAR UP

"Landis!" the hand that held the teacup trembled—"would you think me awfully silly if I asked you to tell what is it that makes men follow after a woman?"

The man beside her gave his care less laugh.

"Want to be a siren, do you, Rosilyn? Are you bent on fascinating Briscoe? Or are you merely bored with your humdrum husband, and want a little fling?"

"Don't tease me, Landis. I'm in earnest. If you only knew how utterly ignorant I feel—"

"You're getting along splendidly far better than I even imagined—and you never were a stupid girl, Rosilyn. You've been surprisingly adaptable, and every day will make things easier—socially."

She flushed with pleasure. Praise from this man was very rare and very sweet.

"Now about the 'charm' question," he went on, smilingly, "just be your simple self. That's unusual enough to be interesting these days. You know, Rosilyn, you've got a 'wild flower' sort of attraction that's utterly different from the faded, blase, sophisticated girl one meets everywhere."

"But—" she hesitated, anxious to make herself clear, and to be fully enlightened—"these girls are popular, aren't they? Men do court them and run after them."

He laughed at that. It was a quizzical laugh, and he regarded his young wife rather keenly.

Had she heard about Lydia, and wanted to 'cut her out'? Was that the reason de'tre of this probing? "You're doing rather well, for a novice. Briscoe seems almost too 'epris'. And he rather fancies himself as a connoisseur."

"I like him—and I don't like him," said the girl.

"Go easy with him, Rosilyn."

She raised her eyes to the fine, dark orbs that were watching her intently.

"Anything you say, Landis. Only—you know I've been a little lonely—I often wanted to explain about that night in town—when he and I missed you and you waited at Claridge's."

"Oh, forget it," came the hurried comment.

But Rosilyn persisted.

"We saw you at that cabaret performance. You were dancing. I wanted—awfully—to hurry downstairs and join you—but Mr. Briscoe showed me that it wasn't just the correct thing—"

"The dickens he did!" Landis' amazement was genuine. "But I hadn't an idea you were in the place!"

"I thought you saw me!" Rosilyn's sensitive heart fluttered with a new hope. It was the Harbrook woman who had dragged him off so quickly!

"Thought I saw you?" The young man repeated the query incredulously.

"What kind of a creature do you take me for, Rosilyn, if you imagine that I am capable of doing such an extraordinary thing? I most certainly did not see you, and I'm surprised that you and Briscoe did not come and join us. Mr. Briscoe was the host. Of what was he thinking?"

The girl hesitated, then she forced herself to say:

"Our marriage isn't the ordinary one. You remember—our agreement? Then why should I interfere with your enjoyment?"

There was a silence. The music of the band came fitfully and a warm little wind blew through the foliage of the trees.

Then Landis, in rather a hoarse voice, said:

"Remember, Rosilyn, that I am always glad to have you with me. And I want to apologize for many things, if you'll be generous enough and sweet enough to allow me? I know I'm not nearly good enough for you."

Her breath caught in her throat. Was she asleep and dreaming? Could these wonderful words really have come from the man she so adored? Was it really possible he had some genuine feeling for her?

"Shall we walk on for a bit?" She rose from the grass, brushing her bunched skirts as though her appearance was of more importance than her husband's last remarks, although her heart was hammering in her bosom. "We've both finished tea, haven't we?"

"Yes, let us move on." He thought her abrupt change of subject was a running away from any intimacy between them, and that indeed she had no personal sentiment for him.

But as they walked through the crowded gardens, the girl kept close beside him, and once—with a confiding little gesture—she placed her hand for a moment or two upon his arm.

"Enjoying yourself, Rosilyn?"

"They had paused in front of a gaily-decorated booth where certain articles were being 'auctioned off', and he plunged into the little crowd his wife, beside him. "See, I'm going to buy something for you, as a little souvenir of a delightful afternoon. It's to be the forerunner, I hope, of lots of other jolly times—together." He laid a stress on the last word.

"Oh! How amusing!" Rosilyn clapped her two hands together, like a delighted child when Landis secured an absurd French doll.

"Look at the curly red wig!" Look at the long, slanty eyes! They're as old as Egypt, Landis, and as wise!"

After that they 'did' the side-shows and were suitably fleeced. Then they had their pictures taken 'while you wait' and then the 'coconut shies' did a brisk business with them.

"You throw just like a boy," commented Landis, gaily, when his young wife won a prize.

"I feel just like a kid today," said Rosilyn, her heart a thrill with pulsating happiness.

Mr. Lewis Long, Sherman, Tex., who has been visiting friends and relatives here the last week returned home Tuesday morning.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend."

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes. Use 'Mother's Friend' as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradford Regulator Co., B.A. 44, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated booklet containing information every expectant mother should have. 'Mother's Friend' is sold by all drug stores—everywhere."

What Every Woman Knows!!

(Another Essay)

Cutting corn "by hand" is a hard mean ornery job and no one wants it! When a man DOES take the job he CHARGES PLENTY, bleeve ME!

Just as hand-sewing, candle making, horse cars, side burns, home spun, rail fences, flails, boot jacks, congress shoes, surreys, Old Crow, free lunch, bustles, and long skirts are now outta date so is "hand cut" corn outta STYLE! For the farmer who "uses his bean!"

The farmer who is RICH and who don't GIVE A dern can get along very nicely WITHOUT a McD Corn Binder but the farmer who DEPENDS on his acres for his LIVING has a fat chance if he is dependent on Day Labor for work of this sort!

For LABOR costs PLENTY these days while machines to DO that labor cost but little! And ONE SEASON'S savings PAYS for 'em and THEN some!

As you might have figured out by this time, the purpose of the foregoing paragraphs was to call your attention to the fact that we have McD Corn Binders here for sale and our object is to SELL them! Some people probably, in our position would show a large juicy PICTURE of this McD Corn Binder and doubtless this would be a good idea as thousands of people seeing it would rush madly in here with their check books waving, wanting to buy the original of the pretty picture they saw in the paper! Likell they would!

We HATE excitement of this kind always allowing the Sutton Twins to pull this kinda stuff which is sufficient for THIS store. All WE say is that we'd like to hear ONE GOOD reason AGAINST a McD Corn Binder from ANY farmer who has 30 or more acres of corn! We'll PRINT his objection if he can raise one! Also his PICTURE if we can get him to stay put long enuf to GET one taken!

This is a promise!

Yours respectfully,

Wm. B. McCallister, A. M.

P. S.—Shorty wrote the headline for this essay. I had nothing whatever to do with it.

The Sutton Twins!

These two gents are on display only between the hours of 4 and 5 a. m. and at 5:30 to 6 p. m. The balance of the time they are juggling sales of Studes, Willy Nites, Overlands and "used cars." Busy—no end!

Since Mack has taken up this writing of "as says," he's a hard egg to bend. Get up stage and chilly if you don't use correct grammar and pronounce words just so! To be perfectly frank and above board and NOT for publication nor to be repeated Mack gives me one large holy PAIN if you know what I mean! I ust to have ALL this space to strut my stuff but not NOW days!

AUGUST TAX DISTRIBUTION NOW BEING MADE; COVERS $504,192

August settlement and distribution of the June, 1925 installment of taxes collected in Greene County amounts to $504,192.01, it is shown in a report compiled by County Auditor R. O. Wead.

County Treasurer E. A. Jackson was charged with the sum of $1,162,920.56 for collection in 1925 and of this amount $53,021.80 remains delinquent and not paid. This sum will be carried over and penalties inflicted accordingly upon delinquent tax payers.

Taxes amounting to $581,073.19 were distributed as a result of the first-half tax collection in 1925 the report shows. The fact that most of the special assessments are collected in December accounts for the difference of about $80,000 between the first and last half of the tax collection for the year, the auditor said.

Of taxes collected for the last half of the year, $147,700.56 goes to the county and $6,340.87 to the state of Ohio. Townships received a total of $44,002.43, the villages and Xenia city, $50,129.70 and the county and city school districts $241,177.65.

Auditor's and treasurer's fees amounted to $7,123.80, paid into the general county fund for county use.

Sum of $147,700.56 received by the county is distributed as follows: General county fund, $37,722.66; Infirmary fund, $7,748.22; Children's Home fund, $5,569.04; mother's pension fund, $1,937.05; soldier's relief fund, $968.52; interest and sinking fund, $36,319.80; election fund, $1,937.05; county road fund, $48,426.40; ditch fund, $1,594.92; judicial fund, $1,937.05; blind relief fund, $1,937.05; library fund, $1,452.80.

XENIA GOLFERS GIVE SNOW HILL CLUB OVERWHELMING DEFEAT

Snow Hill Country Club golfers of the avalanche of a 60 to 8 defeat in a return inter-city match over the Xenia Country Club course Wednesday afternoon.

Xenia's match team, composed of twenty-three low handicap players, was in rare form and in the medal play only two members of the local team lost their matches.

Shooting practically par golf, Donald Currie, Xenia Country Club professional, handed in the low card of the match for eighteen holes when he shot a seventy-two, only four shots above par sixty-eight for the two rounds.

Currie also took three points from his opponent, J. Lamb, who is the Snow Hill Country Club pro. The local pro had rounds of thirty-five and thirty-seven defeating his opponent on both nines. Lamb shot a thirty-nine and forty-one for a fairly good eighty.

The victory over Wilmington advanced the Xenia club's winning streak in inter-city matches to four straight this season. Locals had previously beaten Wilmington, Washington, C. H. and Middletown, the only reverse being administered by Middletown in June.

The final match of the season is a postponed affair with the Washington C. H. Club over that club's course September 1.

DEMPSEY ROUGH ON SPARRING PARTNERS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 26.—With his training now well under way and several sparring partners already nursing bruises, Jack Dempsey today was ready to take on more opposition.

Five heavies clashed with the champion yesterday and all felt the swift blows from his gloves. His quick action and evident willingness to mix it brought commendation from experts.

Dempsey was due to move to his bungalow today which is in the outskirts of the city. His wife, Estelle Taylor, will bid him good bye, however, as she leaves Thursday for the coast to begin work on a new picture.

Where Did She Get That Graceful Figure?

You remember her of course—so long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny weak run down woman can do the same and gain a clean clear complexion at the same time.

Just get 60 McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 60 cents at Sayre's Drug Store or any drugist anywhere—Take 2 after each meal and two at bedtime and if any excessively thin woman, or man either for that matter, doesn't gain at least five pounds in 30 days! Why! Money back.

SIXTH SUFFRAGE ANNIVERSARY FINDS LEADERS CONFIDENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Leaders of women's organizations celebrating the sixth anniversary of the enfranchisement of women in this country today pointed with pride to their political achievements during the last six years, appealed to women throughout the nation to join in the movement for greater equality with men and warned the nation that women now have the power to institute a "political house cleaning."

Although the end of six years of enfranchisement finds the women divided into at least two major camps—the League of Women Voters and the Woman's Party—both sides view with pride the achievements of women in the political arena.

Summed up, these achievements are:

Women in legislatures in thirty-six states, total—133.

Two women governors—Nellie Ross, Wyoming, "Ma" Ferguson, Texas.

Half a dozen women in Congress. A woman on the Supreme Court bench in Ohio.

Numerous women mayors. Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters in a statement written for the United Press today, said:

"The most significant result of six years of woman suffrage is the woman voters contribution to the open mind in politics. Woman's entrance into the political field has created a new conception of what to vote for. It has become a political habit for them to study candidates of all parties, the merits of all campaign issues and the election laws themselves."

"The first six years of woman suffrage mark no new era in definite results at the polls, because of the woman vote. But here and there where women have taken the leading part in local elections, the result has been a political house cleaning."

The League of Women Voters has no national membership list but the total membership is estimated at about 1,000,000. The league claims among its achievements an increased woman vote and the adoption of the world court resolution.

The Woman's Party, smaller, more militant and radical, is at odds with the League over the question of "equal rights in industry." The Woman's Party, which has a membership of 25,000 wants no legal discriminations in industry favorable to women because it argues such laws "legislate women out of jobs." An employer will hire a man rather than comply with such legislation, it claims.

"We want equal rights with men in every field," Miss Edith Ainge, treasurer of the Woman's Party told the United Press. "We favor a woman for president. At least half the cabinet should be women. We should like to have an equal number of men and women in Congress."

The Woman's Party, through Senator Curtis, Rep. Kan., has introduced an amendment to the Constitution reading:

"Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

In their war against discriminatory legislation members of the Woman's party have investigated all the laws of every state in the nation and claim to have drafted 506 bills, subsequently passed by the various states.

"By the passage of these bills, sixty points in the equal rights campaign, affecting the lives of 26,000,000 women, have been won" the party claims.

The treasurer's report shows the Woman's Party has spent $1,263,534.19 to further the cause of woman's rights since 1912. For the suffrage campaign during which more than 100 of their members were imprisoned for picketing and militant tactics, $796,053.19 was expended. In the equal rights campaign up to May 1, 1926, the party spent $443,408.94.

Both the League of Women Voters and the Woman's Party already have begun their campaigns for the fall elections. The League in addition to its "get-out-the-vote" campaign will support a program of "law enforcement"—generally taken to mean enforcement of prohibition—and the direct primary system.

The Woman's Party has launched an "elect-woman-to-Congress" campaign and will seek the support of its proposed equal rights amendment.

SHOULD HUSBANDS DO HOUSE WORK?

How Mrs. Dyer Solved the Problem.

Mrs. Mildred Dyer was lucky. She had a good-natured husband who helped her with much of her housework. Because she was in ill health for five years, it was often necessary for him to do this. But it bothered Mrs. Dyer. She felt that he had to work hard enough anyway.

The time he spent in doing her work was needed for his own. She determined to find the road to better health.

She writes: "I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply wonderful. My health is better than it has ever been. I am getting stronger and gaining in weight."

The Dyers live at Redlands, Calif., Route A, Box 183.

How often does your husband have to do your housework? No matter how willing he is, no woman feels comfortable about it. Perhaps you, too, will find better health through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

You'll have to go farther back than the old McGuffey
readers to get this poem. You might find it in one of the old books of elocution. It went something like this:

THE LOST PANTALOONS

It chanced to be my golfing day,
The thunder loud was roaring,
I carried water to the bay
And left the gray there snoring;
I thought that I'd a golfing go,
For I had loads of riches,
When, Lord! a dreadful thing I found—
My wife had on my breeches.

I tried on all her petticoats
Alas, I couldn't wear 'em
But in my pants she played at golf,
And how I feared she'd tear 'em
They were my finest woolen pair,
Without a patch or stitches;
I could do naught but stand and swear
And wish I had my breeches.

That night when from the course she came
How changed from what I knew them,
My tailored pants were not the same—
One more such trip would rue them.
I saw the wide and glist'ry rents
Where golf course briars had torn them,
They look like they cost 15 cents
And I for years had worn them.

O, sorry day, when woman learned
To wear her husband's breeches,
For now her head to golf is turned
And turned away from stitches;
And tho' her wardrobe through he gleans
And through it all he claim is,
He finds he can't replace his jeans—
He can't wear her pajamas.

Well, Longfellow Smallpox from Cotton Run sends me a land turtle. Very interesting, but what am I to do with it. The greatest drawback to the critter is its head. There is no drawback to Gazette classified ads. Phone an ad tomorrow.

Note the smaller waistline and finer muscles about the body of the Dempsey of seven years ago.

TEXT OF ADDRESS DELIVERED BY SPEAKER AT MASONIC PROGRAM

Mr. Chairman, Most Worshipful of the Grand Master, Officers of the Grand Lodge, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your friends from near and far come today to rejoice with members of this Local Lodge, congratulate you upon your success in masonry and especially to felicitate you upon your proposed beautiful blue Lodge Building. Brethren, do not feel, therefore, that you are alone in this most worthy project. The eyes of your Brethren not only in this land, but beyond the seas, will rejoice and wish you unmeasured success.

Inasmuch as you are making history today it will be fittingly proper to turn our minds backward for a few moments. Early in the fifteenth century, Henry the Sixth of England asked: "Where did Masonry begin?" Being told it began in the East, he asked: "Who brought it Westward?" The answer was: "The Phoenicians." Thus, backward through the ages has Masonic history run until the first glimpse of its genesis is practically lost. Originally, however, it was a fraternity of architects and artificers. In Tyro and Sidon, temples were erected to the unknown deities. Rich and gorgeous palaces also were built to beautify their cities. Many of these cunning workmen were sent by Hiram to aid Solomon in the erection of the temple on Mount Moriah.

For eight centuries Masonry continued as an operative fraternity, producing both in England and on the Continent those beautiful specimens of art which still delight the traveler. Today, however, our craft does not specialize in the physical science of erecting buildings. Our chief endeavor is to specialize in the noble and benevolent world. To us is a higher reverence for God and a warmer affection for our fellow men.

The outward civilization is important and necessary but the inner man must be renewed day by day if civilization is to endure.

Masonry today is a universal institution. During all the years it has never presumed to supplant the Church. It has, however, been a mighty factor in assisting both church and state to remain as independent institutions yet working toward the common end of social betterment.

I have often wondered why so many real Christians are members of the Fraternity. During the last few years I have learned that the real work of the Masonic Lodge is to make man a better husband, a more devoted father, and a more loyal citizen. To all of which the real Church of the Master will say a hearty AMEN!

Law and morals are distinct, but their aim is one. Thus, the Church State is separate institutions, yet, their aim is to protect and inspire the citizen. Law prepares the way for the Moral order and Morals make more easy the task of law. Here, Masonry grips the soul of man. The twenty-four-inch gauge, the plumb, the level, square and compass, and trestle-board are eloquent of measurement and restraint.

The savage measure nothing. He kills beyond his present need. Momentary desire controls his actions. Thus it is also with the hardened criminal. Human life to him is cheap and in the prospect of momentary gain slays the noblest citizen of the nation. On the other hand, the acts of civilized man are correlated. We know today by actual experience, that, "What-so-ever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." We speak of rectitude of conduct under the figure of a straight line.

Dr. Charles W. Elliot, who, a few days ago fell asleep, says with regards to Fraternities: "The supreme object of the struggling and striving of most men, is the family. The security and elevation of the family are indeed the prime objects of civilization and the ultimate ends of industry and trade. It is this love of family that is the key note of Fraternity." Here, Masonry has flourished "like the bay tree," because Americans love their homes, their wives and their children.

Members of this Local Lodge, you have a heritage of which you may be justly proud. Your fathers were noble, unselfish men. You honor their memories today. You at the same time, are building for the future. I need make no suggestion as to your plans because your building committee has employed efficient and honorable men, but you will need much more than an outward edifice. In the words of one of our own Brethren at the ground breaking of our Temple site in Dayton, Charles D. Head spoke as follows: "You must be careful that no hatred nor malice finds its way into this structure. They have no place here. No lust, nor greed, nor selfishness can be wrought into these walls if this structure is long to endure. No passion, that makes men worse, can enter here—no meannesses or schemes that array Brother against Brother. No disrespect to flag, to country, to God, has a place here. All these and more, you must avoid." Then Brother Head proceeds to indicate the positive things which must inhere with every well built Masonic building. Among other things he mentioned: "All that is good and sweet and pure." "Love of Country." "Happier homes." "Freedom of Thought." "Religious Tolerance." Of course these fine virtues will not mature in a day. Have you gone into your garden and examined the rose-bud? Its petals are tight and contracted. In a few days these petals loosen and unfold, revealing the flower in all its fragrance and beauty. Thus, the building of character rises slowly, as the growth of oaks, but surely, under the fostering care of the Divine Architect. Man speaks much today of the material universe. He gives much time and attention to the things which will pass away, but these claim man's principle attention, because of its enduring character.

What shall we say of the allegory of "the house not made with hands?" That house into which we are to be fitted as living stones? Here is symbolized the organic conception of society. Social and individual progress are inseparable. No wonder the thoughtful man no longer asks the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Masonry is a universal institution. History furnishes no parallel. Among all civilized people her presence is felt and appreciated. In America, Masonry was rocked in the cradle of Liberty by Washington and his fellow patriots. While many of her number poured out their blood copiously, yet the movement grew, until today it has become a mighty factor in our civilization. Our school children have learned to associate the name of George Washington with Valley Forge. Here my Brethren, may patriotism find her rightful place. There is no national home so beautiful and so clothed with opportunities as our own beloved land. Baron Bunsen said: "Modern history began when Israel escaped from Egypt through a lane made dry for them by God across the Red Sea." Cromwell with his sword and Milton with his pen saved liberty from being throttled by the Stuarts.

Moses was not permitted to enter the Promised Land, yet by faith saw the Land: entered, conquered, occupied, a kingdom established, and the Temple erected. Masonry believes in human nature and the willingness of the Divine to reinforce the human. Therefore, confide in the words of the Sacred writer: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" Masonry owes no allegiance to the Pharaohs, nor the Neros, nor to those whose coats of arms are cross-bones. Her work is not destructive in character but constructive. In this we rejoice. Because of this principle, she will live through the coming years!

Masonry believes in the Fatherhood of God. Therefore, she has a right to live. She also believes in the brotherhood of man. Therefore, she will be helpful to human society.

In this age of gross materialism, when so many of our fellow men are worshipping the golden calf of selfishness; when so many are falling prostrate before the gold-dust of earth, I am almost constrained to cry with Mordchai, when the Jews were in imminent danger from a wicked, jealous Haman, "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" In answer the Queen took her life into her own hands and stood before the King. Thus, my Brethren, we are taught the sacredness of society and human life. There are enemies abroad. Let no one be deceived. Our only hope and purpose is to educate the ignorant, clothe the naked, befriend the friendless, comfort those who mourn and inspire with a Holy Inspiration, a deeper reverence for our Heavenly Father and a more ardent love for one another.

In the Divine Providence, thus far, God has allowed only one America, "The Land of the Free, and the Home of the Brave." May we love her as we love our life. May we give copiously of our time and energy, thought and prayer, to make her a better place for our children, and indeed, on earth, to make her "the last fond hope of man."

The dawn's aglow with huster of the sun
O love, O burning passion, that has made
Our day illustrious till hours are done—
Fire our dull hearts, that, in our sun's eclipse,
When death stoops low to kiss us on the lips,
He still may find us singing, unafraid.

One thing we know, that love so greatly spent
Dies not when lovers die: From hand to hand
We pass the torch and perish—well content,
If in dark years to come our countrymen
Feel the divine flame leap in them again,
And so remember us and understand.
